Homepage

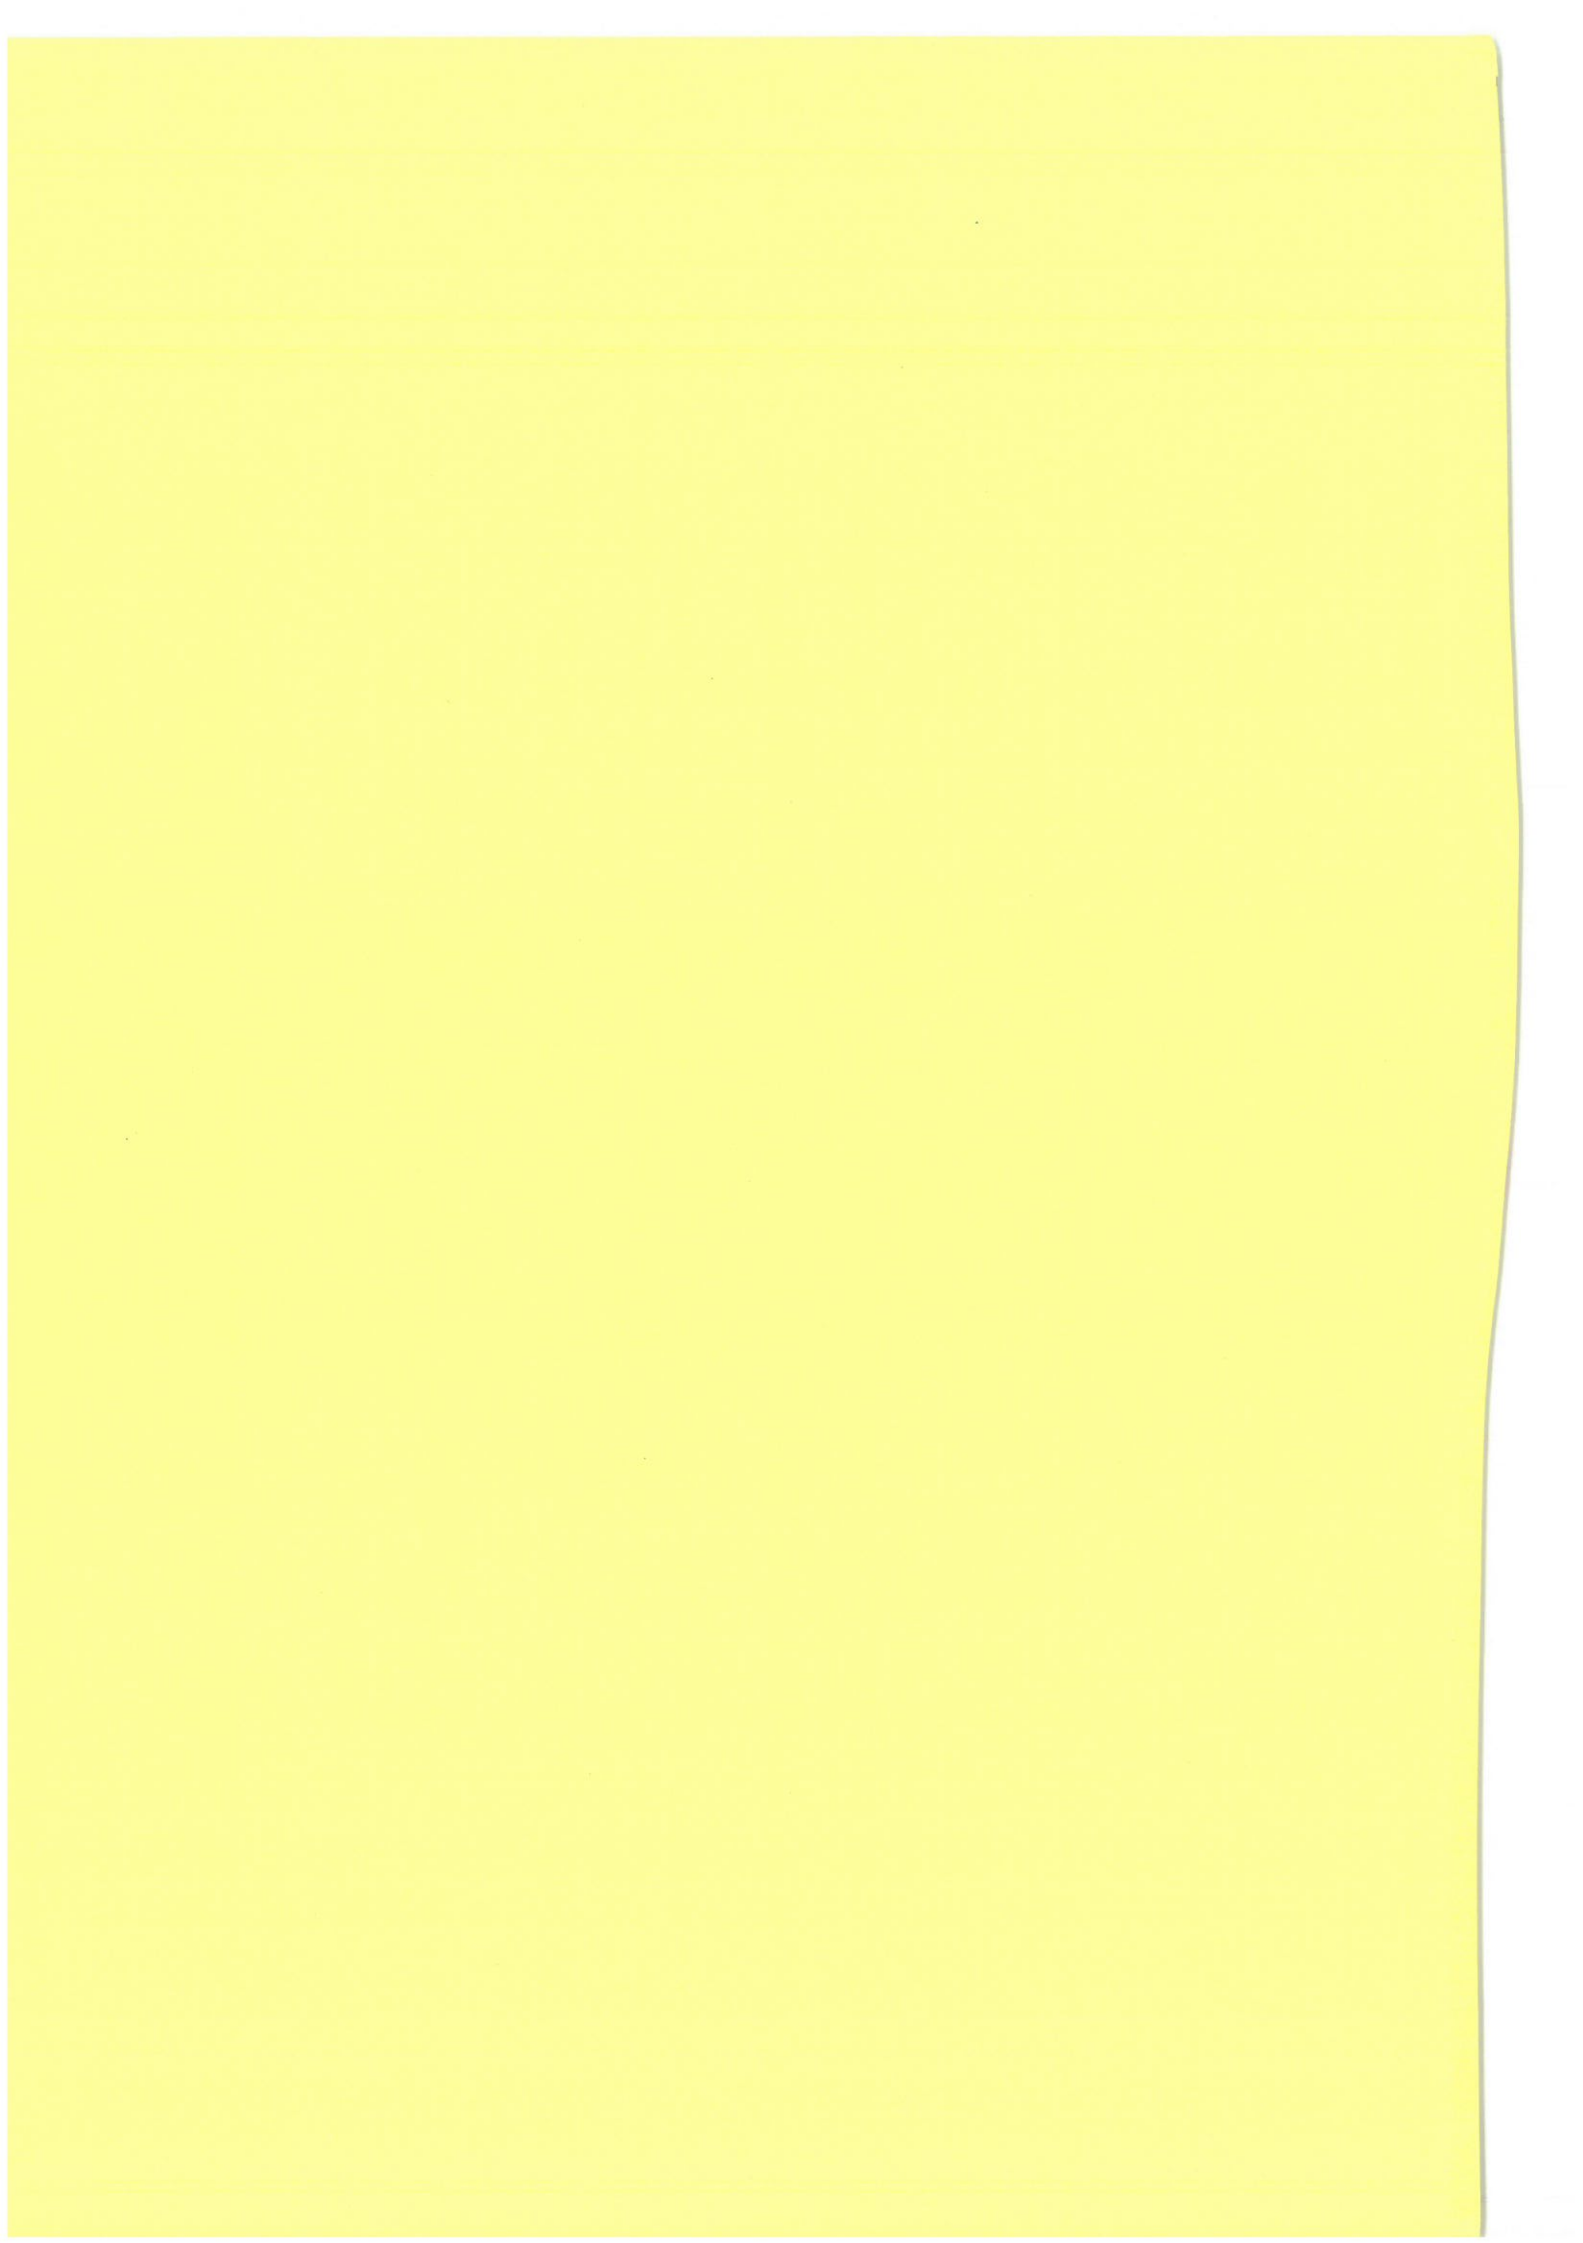

It is a typical traditional Korean (a Confucian study and ceremonial center) that has a shrine in the back and a study area in the front, and was built 500 years ago honoring the great Choson scholar of Neo-Confucianism, Lee Eon-yeok, who studied here. He was the first person to start the debate style of academic study. In 1573, about 20 years after his death, scholars wanted to build a memorial honoring his achievements. Oksanseowon is one of the 47 highly honored seowons in Korea. The signboard of Oksanseowon was written by Chusa, Kim Hong-do, a scholar famous for his beautiful calligraphy. It also has the largest number of old books, including Samgukagi, by Kim Yu-shik. Surrounding Oksanseowon is the mountain, Inwangsan, and also many beautiful valleys.
